

AURA AND COLOR INTERPRETATION

Color interpretation is the study of colors to determine personality traits and individual preferences. It is closely aligned to numerology. Individual colors relate to different numbers and also are connected to chakras, energy centers in the body. One way that color is used to interpret personality traits is through the aura. An aura is a luminous egg-shaped cloud of pulsing energy that surrounds the body. It extends from the body in all directions about six feet and is made up of bands of colored light that travels in patterns around the body.
